17 Seniors Graduated At Barium On April 19

Rev. Chas. G. McClure Makes Commencement Address.— Many Awards Presented

The power to overcome temptations, having and obeying visions, the desire to serve and the power to preserve were some of the "musts" cited here on the night of April 19th to the 1943 graduates of the high school at Barium Springs in the commencement address delivered by Rev. Chas. G. McClure, pastor of the Caldwell Memorial Presbyterian church in Charlotte. He was outlining the equipment for successful living, which he explained meant successful Christian living.

Following his address diplomas were awarded to Bertha Lee Broome, Lilly Bryant, Evelyn Coppedge, May Lynn Jones, Juanita McMasters, Marie Morgan, Lillian Sanders, Janie Smith, Donald Bolton, Joe Long, Pleas Norman, Marshall Norris, Richard Shoaf. James Stafford, Willie Stinson, Ernest Stricklin, and Roscoe Twombly. To each graduate, too a handsome Bible was presented.

James Stafford opened the exercises with the salutatory address, and the closing event was the valedictory by Roscoe Twombly. These were second and first honor students, respectively, for the past four years.

Special awards made included the ace medal to Donald Bolton, who was chosen by students and workers for the most consistent improvement in all activities during his stay here; the music improvement medal to Martha Price and the Bible medal to Lillian Sanders for the greatest proficiency in memory work and Bible studies.

Scholarship prizes in the high school were awarded to Dwight Spencer, Nina Berryhill, Billy Everett, Janie Smith and Ernest Stricklin; similar ones to Shirley Inman, Kathleen Monroe, Jerry Young, Jimmy Hayes and Mildred Monroe in the grammar school, and the eight cash prizes offered by Fred W. Sherrill, of Statesville, for the most improvement were presented to Dixie Lee Buie, Bertha Lee Broome, Betty Dorton, Lillian Sanders, Earl Allen, Donald Bolton, Esau Davis and Joe Long.

The Charlotte minister began his address by citing the need of a message on equipment for successful living. "Seen in the business world," he said, "we realize the number of failures in this realm; seen in the school world we realize how many fall by the wayside, and in all walks of life we see the number of moral failures."

Entertainment Given Civic Clubs of County

On Friday night, March 26th, close to 300 members and guests of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs of both Mooresville and Statesville gathered together at Barium Springs for the 20th annual civic club supper for Iredell county, to partake of sausage, grits, ham, green beans, milk, etc., mainly from the farm at Barium. The attendance was slightly below that of last year, but not appreciably so, in view of limited gas. A much smaller number of cars came, but more people piled out of them as they doubled up to make the trip. * * * *

The children's program was in the form of a broadcast from Station RKL, with Ken Manus as the announcer. The theme song which occurred at the beginning and close and to which the boys and girls marched off and on the stage was "We're the Youth of Our Great Republic", sung to the tune of "Tipperary." As the performers trouped in, the color scheme of green and white was again in evidence, all being attired in white outfits. The boys wore green bow ties and the girls had green shamrocks pinned on their shoulders.

"When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" was sung by the entire chorus, followed by an explanation of why St. Patrick's Day is celebrated. This was told by little Peggy Joyce Land. Twelve little tots gave a dance "Pig in the Parlor." Those in this were Archie McMannen, Mary Elizabeth McNeill, Bobby McMannen, Jacquelin Porterfield, Billie Burke, Linda Inman, Frankie Smith, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston, Woodie Smith, Louise Bradshaw, Tommy Scott and Geraldine Katen.

Hazel Walker, Peggy Coffey and Elizabeth Johnson constituted a trio who sang "Wearin' of the Green", and a dance, Irish liit, was given by Ann Pope, Betty Coffey, Gwendolyn Landrum, Frances Adams, and Mary Morgan. The announcer was interrupted by Amos Hardy, the studio messenger, to say that the sponsor of the program, Pleas Norman, was in the audience. Ken invited him to the stage to sing. He responded with "Mother Macree" and "Rose O'Day".

The entire chorus gave two numbers, the final one being "My Wild Irish Rose' and the crowd was invited to join in singing the second rendition of it. The response was good. The performers left the stage to the tune of their theme song.

All of the above-named participants in the program were members of the chorus, in addition to which were Nellie Isenhour, Jeanne Steppe, Helen Barnes, Annie Louise Campbell, Elsie Vest, Geraldine Katen, Jack Jones, Herbert Good, Earl Huddleston, Roy Huddleston, Edward Walker, Ann Wicker, Dorothy Shepherd, Virginia Presnell, Mabel Milton, Peggy Neel, Shirley Inman, Vivian Jacumin, Betty McMannen, Ray Clark, Charles Faircloth, Clyde Dellinger, Dwight Reid, Jimmy Freeman and Billy Scott.

Miss Mary Stewart McGoogan directed the performance, assisted by Misses Theoria Straughn and Anne Gaitley. At the piano was Miss Laura Gray Greene, teacher of music at Barium.

"Heart Exchange" Was Name of Senior Play

"The Heart Exchange" a farcical comedy in three acts by J. C. McMullen, was presented Tuesday night, March 30th, by the Senior Class of Barium Springs High School under the direction of Mr. Homer Keever, head of the English department.

The cast consisted of Marshall Norris and Pleas Norman as Arthur Princeton and Ralph Dartmore, two students at Carolina; Juanita McMasters as Harriet Hocket, a cockney speaking maid at the Heart Exchange; William Stinson as Joseph Thurston, Ralph's rich uncle who indiscreetly gambled in his youth and thereby lost the woman he loved; Lillian Sanders as Marta Kellog, stenographer at the Heart Exchange; Lilly Bryant as Louise Millard, who is engaged to Ralph; Evelyn Coppedge as Thomasina Penn, Louise's aunt who considers herself a lady; Bill Tyce as Hartley Decker, a customer at the Heart Exchange and a person who bears a resemblance to Hitler in more ways than one; Marie Morgan as Daisy Meadows, another customer; Richard Shoaf as George Walters, short story writer, who stutters but is engaged to Marta; Donald Bolton as "Socker" Quigley, who is on the outlook for a wife; Bertha Lee Broome as Matilda Goggenslocker, a customer quite determined to get a husband.

The scenery of the play was the work of Donald Bolton, Joseph Long, Roscoe Twombly, and James Stafford. Miss Janie Smith was in charge of costumes, while the properties were directed by Miss May Lynn Jones. Miss Smith and Miss Jones were also script holders.

Two Sermons Preached During Commencement

Rev. I. M. Ellis Delivers Baccalaureate.— Rev. C. A. McGirt Speaks to Y. P. Societies

Rev. I. M. Ellis of Gastonia, and Rev. Chas. A. McGirt, of Salisbury, used respective subjects of "He That Is Spiritual" and "Life Can Be Beautiful" in sermons delivered at Barium Springs on April 18th as part of the 1943 graduating exercises. The pastor of the First Presbyterian church delivered the baccalaureate in the morning, and the Salisbury Second Presbyterian church minister spoke to the Young People's societies at the evening service.

At 11 a. m. on April 19th, the senior class held its last meeting, offering a program which included the class history, prophecy, last will and testament, and clever personal gifts to one another. Many gifts from friends were also given out.

Mr. Ellis began his sermon by saying that the history of Christianity could be written in the ingenious and fatal ways in which Christians have tried to make their religion easy. He cited the ritualists who felt that just coming to church and witnessing a beautiful form service was sufficient; then, those who felt that creed was the most important thing, and finally the modern moralist who felt that simply being decent was a sufficient religion.

"Paul says," he went on, "that man is either natural, carnal or spiritual," and after defining these, the Gastonia minister held up before the graduates the spiritual man as the ideal. The natural man receives not the things of God, the carnal receives some of the things of God but is torn by dissension, but the spiritual man receives the spirit and power of God.

The speaker dwelt upon the negative side. He declared that the spiritual man "is not a goody-goody, keeping his head in the clouds and not conscious of his own sin; he is not under the command of the physical, letting the body be in control, and he is not given to contention, rivalry and strife."

From the positive angle he maintained that the spiritual man has a sensitivity to the call and power of God, being sensitive to the control of God; that he has an inner peace and tranquility; that he recognizes the indwelling of God in his body, and is lifted up by love.

In stressing the last-named result of being a spiritual man, the minister said that Christian people are free but are limited by love. "There is the filth and mud and slime of sin, but if you have appropriated what Christ has done for you then you can, by His grace, overcome that sin. You determine whether wood, hay or stubble are put into your lives, or whether you put into them characteristics that will stand. If you do the latter, you will live for the Glory of God, and Christian graduates are truly needed today as never before."

Evening Sermon

Rev. Mr. McGirt developed his sermon to the Young People around the life of Saul, the first King of Israel. He spoke of the assets that Saul possessed when he was a young man. These included youth, a good strong body, handsomeness, modesty, the approval of the people, and most of all, the approval of God. As he touched upon these attributes he made application to the graduates of today, and especially emphasized the necessity of having the approval of God.

Then the Salisbury minister proceeded to reply to his question "What did he do with his life?" by saying that Saul developed "the big-head, he became conceited,

News From Most of the Cottages at Barium

CANNON COTTAGE

School will be out soon and we are looking forward to the summer and all the good times we are hoping to have.

We are getting into the prime of softball now, and are really having a good time playing. The high school chose up into four teams who are playing each other. The teams are: "Burney's Wolves", "Stricklin's Alley Cats", "Long's Mountain Apples", and "Bolton's Bulls". Some teams - and all of then live up to their names! Dallas "Tickertape" Ammons gives us the day-by-day news on the games. "Bolton's Bulls" are now in the lead, but you can never tell, the "Alley Cats" are really scatting.

WALLACE COTTAGE

With the end of school comes spring-time feelings each year because we get out into the open more.

The Seniors will soon be leaving. The Wallace Building only loses two this year. They are Jimmy Stafford and Roscoe Twombly. After they leave we will be gettin two new boys and a few changes. You can probably see their names in the next edition f The Barium Messenger.

ANNIE LOUISE

We got our report cards last week. We had nine girls on the honor roll. They were: Patty Inman, Hazel Creech, Jackie Porterfield, Aline Thomas, Louise Campbell, Katie Dunn, Eloise Morris, Peggy Joyce Land and Sylvia Sue Buie.

Peggy Joyce Land has been doing fine in music this year. She has gotten a star on every lesson. Helen Hawley is going to play in the recital Friday night.

Pattie Inman's father came to see us, and brought us a set of games containing a checker board, a chinese checker board, table tennis set, bingo, dominos, cards, a target and some arrows. We are enjoying playing with them.

So many of our girls have received clothing boxes from friends. All of the clothes were so pretty and we are so proud of them. We do want to thank you for them, friends.

STULTZ COTTAGE

The school year is almost gone, and much to our regret we will be losing some of our boys who live in this cottage. We now have ten boys in our cottage, and out of the ten four will graduate this month, namely, Donald Bolton, Joe Long, Marshall Norris and Richard Shoaf. Two of the boys are going to the navy, one to the air corps and the other to the army. We know they will make fine men for our Uncle Sam.

We now have plenty to take up our time and to take our minds off the war. We play softball about every evening, and you could never guess how much we enjoy playing it. We also have a great deal of studying to do since exams are not far off.

JOHNSTON COTTAGE

Two of our boys will have graduated when you read this. They are Pleas Norman and Ernest Stricklin.

Due to the war, we will not get any vacations this year, but we will have a grand time down at Camp Fellowship. We always look forward to having a lot of fun at camp each year.

We have some very interesting things in our quad. We have a "dog catcher's association" headed by Esau Davis, president; Herbert McMasters, vice-president, and with Howard Clark and Gene Dunn "burriers". Howard Clark resigned from the "cave association" to join this very important club.

When the Seniors leave we will have as our "house mother", Amos Hardy, who has had so much experience taking the small boys and girls on hikes, playing "ring around the roses", etc. with them. Amos, we know you will be a good successor.

The "chocolate milk company" has gone out of business according to the report of "Ernest Stricklin, owner," due to the shortage of sugar. Gene Dunn will probably be his successor for he always washed the containers and got the milk so faithfully. He ought to know how now.

We want to express our appreciation to Mr. Johnston for his fine work in our Sunday School Class. We think you are a fine teacher, Mr. Johnston, and we are glad you teach our class.

For the two Seniors, we want to thank all of you, all over the State, for the aid they have given that has made it possible for them to finish school. They appreciate it more than they could ever say.

BABY COTTAGE
First Floor

One of our Easter bunnies has already been to see us, that is, Miss Egerton. She brought us all a big Easter basket full of candy. She is a real good friend of ours.

Last night the elementary grades had a commencement program. The little girls that were in it were: Geraldine Katen, Louise Bradshaw, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston, Shirley Hall, Carol Jean Andrews and Martha Nell Hall. We certainly will miss these little girls when they go to Annie Louise.

We have three girls at the Infirmary with the whooping cough. They are Patsy Dean, Shirley Johnson and Martha Nell Hall We certainly do miss them and hope they can be back with us soon.

We're building the Easter story in our playroom with the Story of Jesus - from the star and stable where He was born to the cross and there our people are coming up from babies to the church on the other side of the cross. We enjoy putting up the pictures and hearing the story of each one.

Miss Anna Egerton (one of the teachers in Mooresville school); Mrs. White (the mother of Miss Nita White, the ice cream lady) and Miss Ona Massey, (daughter of Mrs. Massey, and a Mooresville teacher) came up to see our program last night. We hope they enjoyed it. Miss Scott was coming, too, but we think she got the mumps and they wouldn't let her come. Miss White was coming, but was too busy selling ice cream, we think. Maybe they will come some other time.

INFIRMARY

To our list of sickness we can add whooping cough and more colds; but it isn't serious and the patients are well on the road to recovery.

The Music Recital is Friday. Three of our girls are talented in this field but only two are going to play. We are sure that they will do as well that night as they have these past few weeks while practicing. "Practice makes perfect" you know.

Lieut. R. G. Calhoun has paid us a visit on a leave from Fort Wheeler, Ga. Mr. Calhoun was the principal of the school until he went to the army. We miss him very much, but we are glad that Mr. Hethcox is in that position now.

Ensign Tilton Bundy visited Mae Allen Barrett, his sister. Tilton has finished his training at Austin Peay College. He is in the Navy Air Corps.

Corporal Ernest Smith visited his sister, Lucille. He is stationed at Camp Gordon, Ga.

Lillie Belle Smith was visited by her cousin, Corris Smith. He is now at Camp Gruber, Okla.

Blanche Feimster had a visit from her brother, Wade Feimster, who is in the Army Air Corps in South Carolina.

Ray Lewis, one of our larger boys, has just come back from Charlotte where he underwent an operation on his leg. We missed him very much and are glad to have him back.

—Mae Allen Barrett.

Pertaining To Vacations

Relatives, Clothing People and other Friends:

I wish it were possible for all of you to get together and to let us discuss with you the problems of vacations during the War-time emergency. I feel sure you would cooperate with us and do everything possible to reduce to a minimum the grief and disappointment that may come to the children over the vacation situation.

Let me explain just what the situation is. Ordinarily, you know, we allow the children to visit relatives and other friends from two to three weeks during the summer period, and the children look forward to this with more apparent pleasure than to any other thing that happens during the year. However, there are always some children who have no place to go and their disappointment is all the greater when the other children talk a great deal about their trips and their plans.

We have always tried to make up to these children, who do not get a vacation, by having special provision made for their pleasure during the summer - an extra week at our Camp on the river, for instance. Last year there were so many who could not go home that when we totalled up we found that there was more unhappiness about vacations than there was pleasure, and we want to avoid a repetition of this this summer, if possible.

Last summer the transportation difficulties and food rationing difficulties had something to do with the reduction in the number of vacation trips. This summer both of those things are more critical than ever, and fewer relatives can provide vacations than was the case last year, and that means that fewer children can have a vacation this year, than ever before.

We have tried our best to arrive at a solution to this difficulty - how to allow these few children to have their good time, and not bring about distress among the others. If all of the children were old enough to understand these things, we think we could explain it to them satisfactorily, so that some could go away and some stay. But the majority of our children are little, and they do not understand these things, and when some children go and and others are denied the way to go, their disappointment is so great sometimes that it results in actual sickness, and is certainly harmful to them.

With all these things in mind, we have decided that for this one year, we will not have any vacations for anybody. We believe that all the children will be happier if we carry out this policy at this time of extreme emergency. It is in the carrying out of this plan that we are asking your cooperation.

We know that some of you live near enough to easily get the children and take them to to your home for their vacation. If this were done, however, those who live a little further away, and those who live a great distance away couldn't understand why they should be discriminated against. With the result that we would have even a worse condition than prevailed last year. Very many disappointed children.

We want you to work with us in this and not encourage the children in believing they will have a vacation. Don't invite them, and that will make the whole thing easier. When you do plan for them to come and write to them about this, it makes it extremely difficult for us to deny them this pleasure. But if you work with us and do not invite them and do not make these plans, the whole thing will be easier.

Couldn't we just call this whole business one of the things that we are doing for the War effort? It certainly wouldn't look right if we should send children in already crowded buses to every corner of the State as we do ordinarily. All forms of transportation are now taxed to the utmost to carry soldiers and others connected with our War effort, and we shouldn't add to this burden.

We are already planning extra pleasures here for the children to make up for the lack of vacations - we will allow them to go for a second camping trip to the River and that is a glorious occasion. We are planning a more comprehensive program of games and entertainment here at the Orphanage than we usually have, and all these should make up to the children for their disappointment in not going home! As a matter of fact, their disappointment will not be so keen if all share it. So we plead with you not to ask us to make exceptions for any reason whatever.

Remember, if you insist on your child or children going on a vacation, you may give them a little extra pleasure, but seriously hinder the whole program, and this in the long run will work against your child too!

Please work with us in this matter.

four suggestions, Rev. Mr. McClure said that individuals must have the power to overcome temptations, for "temptation is a fact with which everyone must deal. To ignore fact, or refuse to prepare to meet temptations, is foolishness. It is a common fallacy to suppose that temptations always attack at weak points, but they often attack at our strongest points, causing us to bend like the tallest tree in a storm."

Regarding the necessity of having and obeying visions he declared that many lives are ruined because the visions of youth are lost amid the trials and disappointments of life. He maintained that vision has been the secret of so many great men and among those especially mentioned were Moses and Paul.

In discussing the necessity of having a desire to serve, Mr. McClure said "strange as it may seem, man must lose his life in order to find it. This is an elemental principal that Jesus gave us, and one that we forget in our peril." He cited the story of a man who, because he was willing to give his own life if necessary, was able to save his drowning wife and two children.

Mr. McClure felt that a final necessity was the power to preserve. "Growth and development are slow and long processess and you must have the ability to press on. to patiently preserve. Moses spent 80 long years in preparation and waiting, and remember Jesus' 30 years of preparation for three years of ministry. It was Jesus who said, 'First the blade, then the ear, then the full grain on the ear'."

He closed his address by asking the graduates if there were any help in securing the equipment for successful Christian living. His answer was "Yes, give your life to Christ. Let Him be guide and strength. Let Him play upon your souls, and woo from them the greatest lives possible."

Two Sermons Preached

he went into battle, came out victorious and the people acclaimed him. Finally, it arrived at the point where he thought he was bigger than God. God rebuked him twice, but Saul laughed. Then Saul became jealous, he became envious and began to hate the best friend he ever had. Finally, Saul died the inglorious death of a coward upon the battlefield, and before dying he declared 'I have played the fool'."

"God didn't intend it that way," said the speaker, "and if you would chart Saul's spiritual life you would find it started at the top and went downward, whereas God wanted his spiritual life to start low and climb higher and higher." At this point he told the listeners that there were three planes of living, namely, self-interest, for others and for the Glory of God. Those planes, he asserted, shouuld be God first, others second and self last, for "Life can be beautiful if it is lived on the plane with God."
